RITA Launches U.S. DOT Research Hub Website

Friday, February 17, 2012 - The U.S. Department of Transportation's Research and Innovative Technology Administration (RITA) recently launched the U.S. DOT Research Hub website, a searchable database of the latest agency-sponsored research, development, and technology projects. The database acts as a central location for information on projects funded by U.S. DOT operating administrations, providing access to the Department's research portfolio at the project level. The database also provides links to research reports and other products generated by completed projects. The website has been released as a test version in order to solicit feedback from the transportation community that will be used to help develop future database versions. The website's address is www.rita.dot.gov/researchhub. Contact: Nancy Wilochka: 202-366-5128.
